

Star the Panda [★]

Star the panda just moved into the bamboo city. She was so excited for her first day of school. The next morning she got ready for school she had a star on her belly instead of a stripe. Her silver book bag glimmered in the sun as she ran to school. As she entered the school her teacher said to come up to the front and to tell every one her name. One student said I don't care! Star sat down next to a quiet girl. When it was time for lunch star sat by her self and no one asked her to come and join them. After lunch it was time for recess. The shy girl asked her if she wanted to come play volleyball with her. Star said of course! Star said what is your name? She said olive with a smile. Olive said why dont you come over to my house after school. Ok said Star. In the class room every one packed up. Star and Olive went to olives house and played a board game. Star was so glad to have a friend.
